PREFACE TO SECOND EDITION

THE issue of a second edition of this volume has afforded the writer an opportunity of making certain alterations which it is hoped will add to the utility of the work and secure continuity between this and the second volume of the Course which was issued in 1909.

The last 180 characters in the List under Section XII. of the first edition have been struck out and others substituted for them. These are embodied in three stories contained in Section XI. of the present volume, in which exactly one thousand characters are now made use of.

In deference to a suggestion made by various critics, the Chinese text has now been placed in one section near the end of the volume, and the index of characters under their radicals has been changed by the substitution of reference numbers for the meanings given in the first edition.

Reference has been made towards the close of the first edition to a vocabulary which it was intended to embody in Volume II. After this vocabulary had been practically completed the writer came to the conclusion that the needs of the student would be more adequately met by the compilation of a comprehensive dictionary of Northern colloquial Chinese. The vocabulary was accordingly discarded, and its place has been taken by an Anglo-Chinese Colloquial Dictionary* containing over twenty thousand separate expressions.

This will enable students to find Chinese equivalents for a number of expressions which they would otherwise have great difficulty in rendering, at any rate for many years.

PREFACE TO FIRST EDITION

THE present work is intended to meet the wants of those who think they would like to learn Chinese but are discouraged by the sight of the formidable text-books with which the aspiring student is confronted. It is especially intended for the use of Army Officers, of Missionaries, and of young business men connected with trade interests in China who wish to commence the study of the language in England with a view to continuing it in the country itself.

The exercises contained in this volume, with a total capital of one thousand words, should be mastered in six months by any one who will devote an hour or so a day to the task, and the student who has mastered a thousand words, with some of the many combinations they can be made to form, will have a sufficient stock at his command to make his ordinary wants known. If he wishes to do more than this he must turn to the larger text-books which he will then find to be much less formidable than they appear to be at first sight.

With a stock of from fifteen hundred to two thousand of the right words, if he knows how to use them, any one can speak Chinese intelligibly, and a good knowledge of the thousand words which this book contains will take the student, theoretically at any rate, at least a third of the distance. He will find the remaining two-thirds somewhat stiff climbing, but with the start that this volume will give him he will be in a position to decide when he has gone through it whether or no it is worth his while to proceed farther.

I am indebted to His Excellency Wang, the Chinese Minister in London, for the introductory page and for the inscription which appears on the cover of the book.

My thanks are also due in no small measure to Mr. Reginald Lake, of Messrs. Gilbert & Rivington, for the courteous attention he has devoted to the production of a work that has called for an exceptional amount of care and patient revision.

I.

THE WRITTEN LANGUAGE.

It is commonly asserted that there are two languages in China—the written and the spoken. This statement requires qualification, but it is sufficiently accurate to justify the treatment of the two branches as separate and distinct when attempting a popular exposition of the subject. Of the difficulty of both there can be no doubt, but as the written language presents more difficulties than the spoken, it will be convenient to reverse the usual order of things and to deal first with the former.

The genesis of the written language of China is largely a matter of conjecture, but Chinese scholars from time immemorial have been almost unanimous in the opinion that it was pictorial in origin. The subject has been dealt with by numerous Chinese writers, and those who are interested in a more scientific treatment of the matter than the following chapter is intended to present are referred to an elaborate and learned article on the subject by the late Mr. T. Watters, a profound Chinese scholar, who, in his Essays on the Chinese Language, deals at length with this complicated question.* It will be sufficient for present purposes to refer to the most widely known of the Chinese authors, a scholar called Tai T'ung, who lived six hundred years ago, and wrote a treatise which is often cited as an authority in the great Lexicon of Kang Hsi, the standard dictionary of the Chinese; it is also quoted by most foreign authors of works on the Chinese language.†

* Essays on the Chinese Language, by T. Watters, Shanghai. Presbyterian Mission Press, 1889. See also an Article entitled Prehistoric China, by Dr. E. Faber, published in Vol. xxiv. Part 2 of the Journal of the North China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society.

† A translation of the work of this author, under the title of The Six Scripts, has been made by Mr. L. C. Hopkins, H.M.'s Consul-General at Tientsin

This is what Tai T'ung says with regard to the Chinese written character:

"Spoken sounds preceded written figures, and before the invention of written symbols, dealings by means of knotted cords came into existence. These were followed by cutting notches on wooden materials, which gave way, in turn, to figures representing natural objects, and forms indicative of actions, states or relations, cut out into lines to serve as counterparts of the spoken names of the same objects, actions, states or relations. With these came graving knives, and tablets for graving upon, and this was writing, the whole object of which was to make speech visible."

In tracing the evolution of the written character, Chinese scholars divide its progress into six marked stages:

1. Pictorial.
2. Indicative.
3. Suggestive compounds.
4. Deflected characters.
5. Phonetic.
6. Adoptive, or characters which are used in place of others.

Pictorial characters are those in which the forms of objects are copied, such as

now written

Indicative characters are those which are formed by indicating the essential features of physical action, state or relation, such as

now written

Suggestive compounds are figures pointing out some property or relative circumstance. Thus, the union of the sun and moon expresses brightness; a tree or piece of wood in a doorway, obstruction; two trees, a grove, or forest; two men on the ground, the act of sitting; the sun seen through the trees, east.

Deflected characters are represented by inverted delineations of symbols, either in whole or in part.

To each of these idiograms a certain sound was attached, and the next and greatest step, the phonetic stage, was the invention of compound characters in which symbols representing sounds by which objects were named were combined with other symbols giving an indication of the sense or meaning.*

The following example will be sufficient to illustrate this idea. Let it be taken for granted that the accompanying combination of strokes—交—is pronounced chiao. It means, when taken singly, to blend, unite or join, though it has some eight or ten other distinct meanings in combination. Place 虫, an insect or reptile, at the side of it, and it becomes 蛟, a species of dragon; substitute 魚, a fish, and it is 鯊, a shark; 狗, a dog, and it is 狡, wily, or crafty; 女, a woman, and we have 姣, handsome; 糸, silk thread, and we get 絞, to bind around, also to strangle. Now, all these characters, and many more with the same sound symbol, are read chiao, but, as is shown, they each have a different meaning in accordance with the character which is added to the symbol. We thus divide Chinese characters into two parts—one, the sound indicator, to which the name "phonetic" is generally given; the other, the idea indicator, which is commonly called the "radical." Every character in the Chinese language, unless it happens to be a radical itself, is divisible into these two parts. The radicals are limited in number, there being only 214 of them altogether. Some of them, such as 口 mouth, 人 man, 子 son, 魚 fish, 山 hill, 日 sun, 月 moon, are obviously pictorial, but a large number are certainly not pictorially suggestive. The character 鼻 pi, for instance, is a radical, and means a nose, but neither in this, its modern, nor in its primitive form can it be said to have the slightest resemblance to that organ. Yet we know, when we see it in combination, that the compound character must have something directly or indirectly to do with the nose. Thus, 齁 hou, to snore, 齙 nung, a cold in the head, 齙 nang, to speak through the nose; the radical on one side giving the clue to the meaning, the phonetic on the other giving the clue to the sound. One or two more instances will suffice. Radical 魚 yü, a fish; 鯉 chi, a mullet; 鱈 shan, an eel. Radical 風 feng, wind; 飄 p'iao, to be blown about. It will be noticed in this last character that the radical is on the right hand side, and not on the left. It seems probable that at one time it was always in a fixed position, but that variations were adopted for the sake of symmetry. There are now many Chinese characters the radical of which is placed at the top, below, or at one or other side, and in a few instances its position is determined by the fancy of the writer.

Besides being an indicator of the meaning, the radical has a further, and most important, value. By its aid it is possible to find any character in a dictionary of the Chinese language, whether purely native, or prepared for the use of the foreign student. Let us take the character 齙 for an example, the radical of which is 鼻, a nose. Now count the number of strokes in the phonetic. If we look up the radical 鼻 in the list of radicals at the beginning or end of the dictionary, as the case may be, where it will be placed in the numerical order of the strokes of which it is composed, we shall be able to trace it to its place in the body of the volume, and there we shall find the character we are in search of placed in the list of characters of five strokes ranged under that radical. In an Anglo-Chinese dictionary the sound will naturally be given as well as the meaning, but as the Chinese have, obviously, no system of spelling such as is supplied in an alphabetical language, they have to adopt another method of indicating the pronunciation. By this method of spelling, if it can be so called, which was introduced by Buddhist monks from India,* the sound of a character is given by means of two other characters of which the first is the initial and the second the final; these two are manipulated in such a way as to yield the sound required. It might here be mentioned that each Chinese word sound belongs to one of four (in composition, five) gradations of tone which can also be indicated by the above method, but an explanation of the tone system will find a more appropriate place in the remarks which follow on the spoken language.

To illustrate the Chinese method of spelling the reader is referred once more to the character 鱈, an eel, which will be found in the list of phonetics of twelve strokes under the radical 魚, a fish. Immediately below this character in the dictionary we shall find two others: one pronounced shang, and the next yen. Place them together—shangyen; eliminate the termination of the first and the initial sound of the second—sha(ngye)n—and we get shan, which is the sound of the character we are looking for. In the case of characters of a complicated nature in which the radical is not easily distinguishable, the dictionaries supply a further assistance by furnishing a list of these characters arranged in order of the total number of strokes, including the radical, which is shown against the character. Where characters are formed by a combination of two or more radicals there is nothing to do but try them all until the right one is discovered.

To return for a moment to the phonetics. A Chinese gets to learn these by practice at school, and knows them intuitively, but European investigators have discovered that their number is limited, for practical purposes, to something between 1,600 and 1,700, from which, by the addition of one or other of the 214 radicals, at least seven-eighths of the characters in the Chinese language, variously estimated at forty or fifty thousand, are found. It is possible, therefore, by learning these phonetics, or primitives as they are sometimes called, to make a very close guess at the sound of any Chinese character, though it must be admitted that there are many exceptions to the rule.

Illustrations have been given above of the primitive and modern forms of certain Chinese characters. The former, it may be well to repeat, are more or less conjectural, for there is probably no genuine specimen in existence of a purely pictorial character. The so-called modern form is modern only by comparison, for it dates from at least the 2nd century B.C. It probably has remained unchanged from the time of the invention of printing in China, which, according to Mr. Watters, dates from the Sui Dynasty (A.D. 589-619), and we are safe in assuming that the written language of to-day "is to all intents and purposes the written language of twenty-five hundred years ago." * The earliest genuine specimen of connected Chinese writing is to be found on certain stone blocks or cones, commonly called the "Stone Drums," † which are now deposited in the Confucian Temple at Peking. There are isolated specimens of an undoubtedly earlier date than the stone drums which have been copied from old coins and vases, but for the purposes of this chapter they need not be taken into consideration, as the originals are now probably not in existence. The exact age of the "Stone Drums" cannot be positively determined, but Chinese writers, with a few exceptions, agree in assigning them to the period of Hsüan Wang, in the Chou Dynasty, two centuries before the time of Confucius, which would make them about 2,700 years old. The inscriptions consist of poetry, written in what is known as the old seal character, commemorating one of the hunting expeditions of * Professor Giles, China and the Chinese.

† An exception should, perhaps, be made in favour of a bronze tripod in a temple on "Silver Island," in the river Yangtze, which is also assigned by many Chinese experts to the same date as the Stone Drums.

Hsüan Wang, who is supposed to have reigned from B.C. 827 to 781. Only a small portion of these inscriptions is legible, but a facsimile is appended of a rubbing taken from one of the stones in the Sung Dynasty (A.D. 960-1127).*

It is not until a much later period that anything like examples of a thoroughly systematized form of writing can be found. Silk preceded paper as a material for writing upon, and it was in the first century A.D. that paper was invented. The introduction of a hair pencil or brush is ascribed to a general of the Emperor Shih Huang Ti (B.C. 221).

The various styles of writing recognized as orthodox by the Chinese may be reduced to six, if we exclude a fanciful ancient form known as the "tadpole-headed," in which all the characters are made to terminate in a form similar to the tail of a tadpole. Of this latter form few, if any, genuine examples exist, though tradition has it that a copy of a portion of the Chinese Classics written in the "tadpole" script was discovered about the year 150 B.C. hidden away in the walls of the house originally occupied by Confucius, where it had been placed by some of his descendants to escape the burning of all written records by the Emperor Shih Huang Ti in B.C. 213. The first of the above mentioned six styles is known as the Chuan Shu, commonly called the "Seal character" by Europeans. It is said to date from the reign of King Hsüan (B.C. 827) whose hunting exploits are supposed to be recorded on the Stone Drums.

* I am indebted to Dr. S. W. Bushell, C.M.G., for permission to use this specimen. An article on the Stone Drums of Peking, by Dr. Bushell, was published in Vol. viii. of the Journal of the North China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, New Series, 1873.

閑 艸 行 楷 隸 篆

The next is the Li Shu, or style of official attendants or clerks. It was used by writers in the public offices, and possibly dates from the time of Chi'n Shih Huang Ti (B.C. 213).

閑 艸 行 楷 隸 篆

The third is the Ch'iai Shu, or pattern style, from which all modern forms have originated. This probably dates from the beginning of the Christian Era.

宋 草 行 楷 隸 篆

The fourth, the Hsing Shu, may be translated as the "running hand," the pencil being carried from stroke to stroke without being raised from the paper, but no abbreviations unauthorized by the dictionaries appear to have been introduced. Date, about A.D. 200.

宋 草 行 楷 隸 篆

The fifth style, Ts'ao tzu, or "grass characters," dating from about the same period, is a freer style of the running hand than the foregoing, and is full of abbreviations which render it very difficult even to an educated native. It is still in common use, and is largely employed in Japan and Korea.

The sixth and last class, known as the Sung T'i, or style of the Sung Dynasty, is the printed style introduced under the Dynasty whose name it bears. It was adopted in the early part of the tenth century, and since that period it has undergone no material alterations.

A description has been given of the method of looking up characters in a dictionary by counting the number of strokes the character contains, exclusive of the radical. Some knowledge of the mode of writing is necessary for an accurate calculation of the number of strokes. The pencil, it may be well to explain, is held in a vertical position between the thumb on one side and the forefinger and second finger on the other. The following character is said to include the elements of all the strokes required in Chinese writing:—

Horizontal strokes are drawn before perpendicular ones; central strokes before those on each side; and those on the left before those on the right. A single stroke often takes one, and sometimes two, curves, as on the left side of the above character, which is formed of six strokes, in the following order :

The above brief description will, it is hoped, enable the reader to understand something of the form and structure of this marvellous script, which has been for ages past, and still continues to be, the medium of communication between a vast proportion of the human race. In its present form it is read and understood, not only throughout the whole dominions of an Empire embracing—to take the popular estimate—three hundred and sixty millions of human beings, but it is also extensively used in adjacent kingdoms. In Korea, the Chinese Classics are studied in all the schools and exert no inconsiderable influence on the character of the nation, while Chinese is the common vehicle of official correspondence; in the Loochoo Islands many of the inhabitants read it fluently; in Tonking a knowledge of it is possessed by the educated classes; while in Japan it still constitutes the basis of the written language. Ever since the days of Confucius it has practically remained unchanged in construction, and the style of books published two thousand years ago differs little from the written language of the present day. It is hardly to be wondered at that so ancient and so widely diffused a script should be an object of veneration to the Chinese scholar, who regards it, from its universality and its adaptability to any system of speech, as vastly superior to all others. He admires it not less for its intrinsic beauty and excellence than for the vast stores of knowledge and wisdom which he considers it to embrace. To many thoughtful Chinese it is a matter of surprise that this script has not been adopted as a common medium of communication throughout the world. "Attach," they say, "what sound or pronunciation to the character you like, the meaning will still remain invariable. Why multiply scripts and invent complicated systems when you have ready to hand a language free from grammatical intricacies, a language that has stood the test of ages, and in which it has been found that no changes were necessary or desirable? It can keep pace with modern requirements, for when a new word or term has to be employed it is perfectly easy to invent a symbol to indicate it, while there is not a single thought, phrase or idea that is not capable of expression in Chinese."*

All this is, theoretically, true enough, but what the Chinese enthusiast loses sight of is the immense amount of study required to obtain a working knowledge of even the small proportion of the forty odd thousand characters that are required for practical purposes, while nothing but constant practice will enable any one to write these characters correctly. Chinese calligraphy is an art in which few, if any, Europeans have ever become proficient. It is possible to acquire facility in writing, but elegance of style can only be arrived at by those who have commenced to learn in childhood and have practised daily throughout the years of their educational life. There is another point overlooked by the Chinese enthusiast which is at the root of the supreme difficulty attending anything approaching to proficiency in the written language. It is not impossible to obtain a working knowledge of three, four, or five thousand symbols, which is all that a man of average education need have at his command—a knowledge of 2,000 characters would be sufficient to take one through the whole Chinese Penal Code, for instance—and if each character expressed only one word or idea, and was always limited to that one word, the difficulty would be comparatively small. But this is not the case. Almost every character, by being placed in a different position in a sentence, or used in a different combination, assumes, in some instances a different shade of meaning, and in others expresses an entirely new idea. The absence of grammar, which the language is popularly supposed to enjoy, does not present such a difficulty to the student as might be supposed. Indeed, it may be said to be somewhat of a luxury to find oneself untrammelled by the forms and accidents of grammatical rule. Number, case, mood, tense, &c., can be indicated by particles, while the value of the word which does duty impartially for noun, preposition, or verb can generally be discovered by a study of the context. The real difficulty in the comprehension and use of the written language for anything beyond the simplest purposes lies in the fact that it abounds in metaphor and allusion. The elegant writer loves to display his erudition by the employment of quotations from the books, canonical and historical, the study of which is a necessary part of his education. If he wishes to express a thought out of the common, or a complex idea, he dives into his store of recollection and quotes a word or two from the sayings of some ancient sage which are suggestive rather than perspicuous. If he wanted to speak, for instance, of the "uses of adversity" in an English composition, he would refer to a "toad's jewel," and pre-suppose the reader to be fully acquainted with the passage in Shakespeare that compares adversity to the precious jewel in the head of the toad. It is this that makes it impossible for the ordinary foreigner to do more than spell his way through a modern official document, or to understand anything but an ordinary note. In fact, it may safely be said that the average educated Chinese is incapable of expressing himself elegantly in his own language. He can understand what he reads, but he cannot write a polished letter, or turn out a finished despatch. The ancient forms of Chinese verse, or the writings of Confucius or Mencius, are child's play compared with the works of later authors, while an elegant essay, composed for an examination for example, would be almost unintelligible to an ordinary individual without the aid of a dictionary of reference or the explanations of a well-read scholar who had history at his fingers' ends, and could supply the context from which the numerous quotations are taken. In almost all Chinese composition, again, measured periods, not unlike blank verse, abound, and are esteemed by the scholar as a capital beauty of the language. Ideas, it may be said, often form the secondary object of consideration, the mode in which they are expressed claiming first attention. Thought also is stereotyped, and all the ideas which the Chinese wish to cherish or indicate are contained, as stated above, in those records which have come down to them from the sages of antiquity. Excellence in composition, therefore, consists in arranging anew orthodox phrases which are to be found in the ancient classics or in the formidable list of historical or poetical works that the scholar delights to study. Each branch, moreover, of Chinese literature possesses a peculiar style of its own. Any one who could read official Chinese, of which the Peking Gazette may be taken as a typical exemplar, would not necessarily be able to understand an historical work, while books on philosophy, on Buddhism or on Taoism would be almost unintelligible without a special study of their style. Modern literature can hardly be said to exist, and novels, as we understand them, are almost all placed under the ban of Imperial prohibition. They are to be found in limited numbers, it is true, but there are no modern society novels. Those which are procurable place the scene in a bygone dynasty, and few are free from objectionable episodes. The educated classes profess to despise fiction, but I suppose that there is not a single Chinese of the lettered class who has not read the few historical novels that are not in the "Index Expurgatorius," and are considered to be classics in their particular line.

I close these necessarily condensed remarks on the written language with a few examples illustrative of various styles of Chinese composition.

The first is the opening verse of an ode in which a gentleman deplores his disappointment in not meeting a lady according to engagement. It is selected, more or less at random, from the Shih Ching, or Book of Odes, collected by Confucius. The date is not known, but it must have been composed long before the time of Confucius, who was born B.C. 552. Against each character the meaning is placed, in order to show how it is that the Chinese language is, to a certain extent, independent of grammar or grammatical particles, and also how easy it is to arrive at the meaning of many passages of primitive Chinese. It should be noted that Chinese characters are written in columns, commencing on the right hand side of the page.

How lovely is the retiring girl,
 She was to await me at a corner of the wall.
 Loving and not seeing her
 I scratch my head and am in perplexity.

* The Chinese Classics, Dr. Legge, Vol. i., Part 4. p. 68.

All this is simple enough. Any one with a knowledge of the radicals and with the aid of a dictionary could make it out for himself, filling in the grammatical lacunae as suited his fancy. The same may be said of the following, taken from the Lun Yü, or collected sayings of Confucius, called by Dr. Legge the Confucian "Analects." Their antiquity is beyond question, and we may safely consider them to date from some time before the Christian Era.

Dr. Legge translates as follows, supplying, as before, the gaps:—

Tsze Kung said, "What do you pronounce concerning the poor man who yet does not flatter and the rich man who is not proud?" The master said, "They will do, but they are not equal to him, who, though poor, is yet cheerful, and to him who, though rich, loves the rules of propriety."

I treat my third and last example in the same manner as the foregoing, placing the more or less elementary meaning of the word against each character.

The above passage is taken from a letter in the published collection of the correspondence of one Yuan Tzū-ts'ai, a scholar holding office at Nanking in A.D. 1716, whose style is held in high esteem. The writer condoles with a friend on the occasion of his house being burnt down. The elementary meanings of the various characters are given, as stated above, but many of these have various significations either singly or in combination, and any one with a knowledge of Chinese would be assisted in his selection by experience, as well as by examples quoted in the dictionary. Even so, there is certainly no European scholar, and probably very few Chinese, who could understand the passage without the assistance of a commentary. It consists of eight sentences, and eight elliptical quotations from various authors, none of which could be intelligibly rendered without considerable amplification of the context from which they were derived, accompanied by copious notes. It should of course be understood that the passage has been selected as an illustration of the difficulties with which the Chinese can, if they like, beset their own language. Happily it is by no means necessary for any one, even a Chinese himself, to indulge in this literary jugglery. The modern style of Chinese composition that is daily gaining ground, partly in consequence of the revised system of education, which is placing classics and poetry somewhat in the background, and also through the influence of the newspapers, which are now read by millions of people, is bringing a much simpler form of composition into vogue which can be read with comparative ease.

II.

THE SPOKEN LANGUAGE

DURING its progress through a long series of ages the Chinese spoken language, it may readily be supposed, underwent many changes. To refer to one proof alone, the specimens of ancient poetry still in existence establish this fact by the rhyming of words which have now, in many instances, no uniformity of sound. Its origin is, and must remain, a mystery in spite of the array of opinions and judgments concerning it, and as none of them can possibly be conclusive, or indeed more than purely speculative, it seems advisable to leave theory alone, and to pass on at once to modern fact. Those who are interested in the attempts to trace the origin of the language to its source, and to establish its family relationship with the great clan of human tongues, are referred once more to Mr. Watters' Essay on the Chinese Language, and particularly to the chapter entitled "Some Western Opinions." They will there find that it has been regarded by some as a special creation, by others as the language spoken by Noah, and Shem, the son of Noah, who moved into China in time to escape the confusion of tongues; that others, again, discover a relationship between the language of China and that of ancient Egypt, while some investigators try to prove that there is a connection between Chinese and the Hebrew tongue.

Wherever it sprang from originally, we know that the pronunciation of the language in the days of Confucius and that of the present day is so dissimilar as to make it a matter of certainty that Confucius would understand nothing of the speech that now prevails at his native place in the province of Shantung. He might, probably, according to Mr. E. H. Parker,* an eminent authority, be more at home in Korea, or Annam, or, possibly, Canton, but he certainly would be unable to understand his own remarks as recited by the modern school-boy in any part of the Empire. And it may be as well at this stage to state that China, which, during the early part of her history was often divided into small states, is not a country in which one spoken language prevails, varied only by provincialisms, but, to quote again from Professor Giles, there are about eight well-marked dialects, all clearly of a common stock, but so distinct as to constitute eight different languages, any two of which are quite as unlike as English and Dutch. These dialects, as pointed out by Professor Giles,* fringe the coast line of China, and between Canton, on the extreme south, and Shanghai, near the mouth of the Yangtze, we encounter no less than seven dialects, each so different from the other as to be quite unintelligible to any but a native of the particular district in which the dialect prevails. Throughout the region of the Yangtze Valley, as it has now come to be called, and from thence northwards, we "come into the range of the great dialect, popularly known as 'Mandarin,' which sweeps round behind the narrow strip of coast occupied by the various dialects above mentioned, and dominates a hinterland constituting about four-fifths of China proper." Throughout this region, "Mandarin," or the official dialect, will be understood, and Mandarin in its purest form is now the Mandarin of Peking, or the Court dialect, which is to other forms of Mandarin somewhat as Parisian French is to the provincial dialects of France. It is to Mandarin, therefore, and especially to Pekingese Mandarin, that the following remarks will apply.

Theoretically, Chinese colloquial is not a difficult language to acquire. The street "coolie" of Peking, whose speech is practically the same as that of the highest official, has a vocabulary of a few hundred words at the outside which are amply sufficient for his wants. He can say anything he wishes to say with this stock of words, and is never at a loss for an expression. A foreign child brought up under the charge of a Chinese nurse will pick up Chinese words with much greater facility than it will imbibe English, and will be talking fluently in the vernacular long before it can do more than babble in the language of its parents, and yet a foreign adult may spend a lifetime in the country and not know ten words of Chinese. No traveller can pass two months in Japan without acquiring, without effort, a sufficient stock of words to make his wants easily known, whereas in China the stranger would leave the country after several months' sojourn with no idea of the language whatever beyond a few abusive epithets which had fastened themselves on his memory from their constant reiteration in his hearing.

"Pidgin" English, as the barbarous English spoken by the Chinese coolie or servant in Hong Kong is called, is nothing more or less than a literal translation of Chinese into English. The Englishman will pick it up in a week, and yet, if he tries to turn "pidgin" English into Chinese, he will find that at the end of twelve months he has made lamentably little progress. It may safely be said that any young Englishman of average intelligence and education who lived in France or in Germany for two years and devoted the whole of his time to the study of either language, would become a fluent speaker and writer at the end of that period. The Chinese Consular Service of Great Britain is officered by men who pass a severe competitive examination before admission, and must consequently be above the average standard of education and ability. The first two years of their career are spent in Peking, where the whole of their time is devoted to the study of the language under experienced supervision, and yet, at the end of this two years' course, there is not one of them who could personally conduct a correspondence in Chinese, translate an official document without the aid of a dictionary, or speak with sufficient fluency to act as an interpreter where important negotiations were concerned. Before they can reach this standard of proficiency they have at least five or six years of work before them.

What is the reason? There is nothing specially complicated about the language. Far from this being the case, its construction is fairly simple, much more so than that of a scientific language, German for instance, and in the matter of the expression of simple wants there is nothing difficult whatever. Yet it is not too much to say that not ten per cent. of Europeans who have devoted several years to the study of the language speak really well; that it requires from five to ten years constant practice to speak fluently, and that there is probably hardly a living instance of a European speaking Chinese so well as to be undistinguishable from a native.

On the other hand, any one who will take the trouble can acquire a sufficient vocabulary at the end of a few months to make his ordinary wants known, or to travel anywhere without the aid of an interpreter. If he wishes to get beyond this elementary stage he must make up his mind for some very up-hill work. In later chapters an attempt is made to assist the student in acquiring such a knowledge of the spoken language as will enable him to carry on an ordinary conversation. At the present stage it will suffice to indicate in general terms a few of the difficulties with which the learner has to contend, together with certain marked differences between the written and the spoken language.

The first of these difficulties is undoubtedly intonation, which, as stated above, is also an important feature in Chinese composition.

The Chinese language is restricted in the matter of sounds, of which there are, in the Peking dialect, about four hundred. It follows therefore that many words must have the same sound. In writing, this deficiency could naturally be ignored, as each ideograph speaks for itself, but, in speaking, it is evident that unless some means were devised by which words of the same sound could be distinguished, much confusion would result. But there is a system by which these sounds are sub-divided. In the first place, a considerable multiplication is effected by the expedient of duplicating many sounds having certain initial consonants by the interposition of an aspirate between the initial consonant and the vowel. By many Irishmen such a word as "chair" would be pronounced ch'air, with a strong aspirate after the ch. So, in Chinese, we have Chi and Oh'i, tang and t'ang, pa and p'a, and very many others, adding a large percentage to the number of sounds. But this number is still more appreciably increased by the pronunciation of the same sounds in different tones or inflections of the voice. Take, for instance, the sound chi. Under this sound are ranged no less than 135 characters, all pronounced chi. Although the number of conversational words pronounced chi is not so numerous as the written words, there is, none the less, a considerable number. We have, to quote a very few, chi, a chicken, chi, excited, chi, to push, chi, to remember. How are we to know which is which? The way they are distinguished is by intonation. The first chi is pronounced in an absolutely even tone, the voice

If we wished to remark that we did not require chicken, we ought to say pu<sup>1</sup> yao<sup>4</sup> chi<sup>1</sup>. If we said instead, pu<sup>1</sup> yao<sup>3</sup> chi<sup>1</sup>, it would mean "do not bite the chicken," pu<sup>1</sup> yao<sup>4</sup> chi<sup>2</sup>, "do not be impatient," pu<sup>1</sup> yao<sup>4</sup> chi<sup>3</sup>, "don't shove," pu<sup>1</sup> yao<sup>4</sup> chi<sup>4</sup>, "don't want to make a note of." It is evident, therefore, that tones are a very important element in the spoken language, indeed an all important one, and neglect or misuse of these tones will land the speaker in many and sometimes awkward, difficulties. A fluent and correct speaker will play upon these tones as the fingers of a violinist play up and down the strings of his instrument, and a false tone, apart from conveying a false meaning, is like a false note in music.

This tonic system plays a part also in Chinese composition. In poetry, and generally in prose composition, only words of a certain tone can occupy fixed places in a clause or line of a certain length, and any deviation from rule will set the line out of tune, though a regard for these rules is not necessary for purposes of clearness; rather the reverse, and they can be ignored in a document of an official or business nature.

A further aid to definiteness in conversation consists in the use of prefixes and suffixes in connection with certain nouns that stand alone in writing, and in the use of two or more words in speaking where one is used in writing. And here we come to the essential difference between the written and the spoken language. The former can be fairly called monosyllabic; the latter is undoubtedly syllabic.

To begin with the prefix. The sound jén<sup>2</sup> means man, but it also means benevolence. In speaking, we distinguish the former from the latter by the pre-position of what, for want of a better word, may be called a classifying article. The most common of these is Ko, best translated by the word "piece." In writing, man (or men), is indicated by one character; in speaking, it is i ko jén, one "piece" man, or chí ko jén, some "piece" man. So again, ping, a soldier, also ice, but in speaking, i ko ping, one piece soldier, i k'uai ping, a bit of ice. There are several dozen of these classifiers, each of which takes a certain number of nouns under its protection. Again, in the written language the character yín<sup>2</sup> is silver; in speaking, we distinguish this yín from many other similar sounds, and indicate that it is a substantive, by calling it yintzǔ; so also, in writing, mao, a hat, in speaking, maotzǔ. This rule holds good of a large number of nouns, but not of all, and there are other suffixes besides the one mentioned. As a further illustration of the syllabic nature of the spoken language a few more examples may be given. To be willing in written Chinese is yüan; in colloquial it is yüani; i, intention, colloquial, issü; li, a hedge, colloquial, lipa; huan, to rejoice, colloquial, hsihuan. Other expressions in the spoken language are entirely different from those in writing, as jih, sun, colloquial, t'aiyang or jih'ou, but it may be said generally that there is a close analogy between the two, the essential difference lying in the fact that whereas redundancy is necessary in speaking to ensure intelligibility, the written language aims at conciseness and the elimination of all superfluity of words.

Pronunciation, apart from intonation, is a further serious impediment in the way of the speaker, such sounds as chih, jih, tzü, ssü, tz'ü, ch'ü, etc., which are incapable of exact reproduction by any recognized system of spelling, requiring months of practice before they can be uttered correctly. And, finally, it is necessary to forget one's own idiom when trying to talk Chinese, and to remember that what in the one language seems a complicated sentence can often be rendered with great simplicity in the other. The Chinese language abounds in proverbial and idiomatic expressions. It is in the discovery of these, and the right use of them, coupled with the appropriate gestures, mannerisms and intonations, that the secret of successful speaking lies.

As a final demonstration of the distinction that is drawn between the written and the spoken languages, it may be stated that the Chinese do not read books of a high-class character aloud to an audience. One could not imagine, for instance, a public reading of the poems of a Chinese Milton, Browning or Tennyson, or of Macaulay's Essays, for the simple reason that they would not be understood if they had not been studied beforehand by the audience, letting alone the fact that half the so-called beauties of Chinese composition gain nothing by recitation. The only instance of recitation in book language is to be found on the stage. There, historical plays are presented in which the actors talk like books, but as the audience have either read the books or know all about the incidents represented, they can follow the dialogue and understand the plot. It is quite possible to write down colloquial Chinese, but it is never so written except in a few novels or in the minutes of evidence taken in a court of Law. If a Chinese were called upon to record a conversation he would inevitably transpose it into literary form.

From what has been said above it will be realized that the popular estimate of the supreme difficulty of the Chinese language is not far wide of the mark. Fluency in speaking, as has been shown, is attainable by most people who will devote the necessary labour to its acquisition, and translation of written Chinese into a foreign language is not beyond the capacity of any diligent student, but it may safely be asserted that there is no living European who can reverse the process and turn out unaided an original Chinese composition of sufficient elegance to command the respect of a Chinese scholar. Proficiency in this direction would necessitate a life-long devotion to the study of Chinese literature to the exclusion of everything else. The late M. Stanislaus Julien might, perhaps, alone of Chinese students have laid claim to this distinction, and he, curiously enough, was unable to speak intelligibly, had never been in China in his life, and was entirely self-taught.

III.

It has been suggested in the previous section that the vocabulary of the ordinary Chinese working man does not exceed a few hundred words, and it is obvious that any one who could secure a knowledge of these words would be on the high road to an understanding of the language spoken by the Chinese coolie. A thorough working acquaintance with the vocabulary of a coolie in all its varied combinations would be sufficient for most people, as the coolie, to all intents and purposes, speaks the language which his master speaks, and if his stock of Chinese words could be handled in the way that he handles them the person who possessed this faculty would have little left to desire. The full possession of this facility is more than the few succeeding chapters profess to offer the student, but at least it is possible to supply him with a fairly representative list of words and to indicate a few of the numberless combinations which they can be made to form. If he will take the trouble to make this list his own he will find it comparatively easy to enlarge his vocabulary by the aid of text books and dictionaries. Of the former, the two most in use are the Tzū Erh Chi, by the late Sir Thomas Wade, and Mandarin Lessons, by the Rev. C. W. Mateer. An Anglo-Chinese glossary of words in common use will be furnished in a separate volume. The written language would require a somewhat larger stock of characters, which cannot be used in precisely the same way, but this subject will be dealt with separately. The present and succeeding chapters will deal exclusively with the colloquial form of Chinese.

It may be as well to repeat at this point that Chinese do not write as they speak, and that when we write down words as they are spoken we are, so to speak, treading on the susceptibilities of the Chinese scholar, who regards written colloquial as unscholarly, but for educational purposes the prejudice of the Chinese pedant may well be ignored. It may be asked, "Why, in this case, is it necessary for the student of colloquial Chinese to learn the character at all? Would not a transliteration of the sounds as in an alphabetical language satisfy all requirements?" The experiment has been tried, but it has never been a success, owing, amongst other causes, to the complications presented by the four intonations referred to in the previous chapter, while it is most unsatisfactory to find one's horizon limited by ignorance of the symbols used by the people themselves. There is probably no short cut to a knowledge of any language, and certainly none to Chinese. If a student will not take the small amount of trouble necessary to master eight hundred to a thousand symbols he had better leave Chinese alone.

The question of pronunciation must be faced at the outset. If the learner goes far wrong in his initial appreciation of the value of Chinese sounds he will find it difficult to correct his mistakes later on. Some Chinese sounds are incapable of production by any alphabetical combinations, and nothing but oral demonstration will make them clear, but, happily, these are few, and most of them can be spelt in such a way that any one should be able to pronounce them fairly correctly. If it were a question merely of inventing a vocabulary for the use of the English student alone the matter would be comparatively simple, but what has been aimed at by those who have tried to work out a system of spelling is to produce something of a cosmopolitan nature that shall be understood by all. The result has been that no one can understand any of the various systems elaborated without divesting himself of preconceived notions as to how certain combinations of letters should be pronounced, and beginners often go astray because they have not carefully studied the directions as to the way to read the vocabularies. Of these there are several, but the best system of transliteration is undoubtedly that elaborated by Sir Thomas Wade. It is, necessarily, not perfect, but it is probably as good as any that can be made, and in spite of much antagonism it has held its own and has outlived various systems which other scholars have endeavoured to force upon the public. All English-speaking people accept it, and though other nationalities spell many Chinese sounds in their own way, they have to fall back on the Wade system when writing for universal information.

The sounds as expressed in the Wade system are given below, and, in order to make them as intelligible as possible, alternative spellings in simple English form are added to each sound. If the reader will bear in mind that A is always pronounced ar; that I is ee or i as in French, and U oo, he will be saved much confusion. Other peculiarities will, to a certain extent, be indicated by the alternative spellings, and an attempt is made to show how the specially difficult sounds can be reproduced.

IV.

We now come to the "characters" which have been selected as likely to be of the greatest general utility. These are placed at the bottom of each page, and against each the "Wade" transliteration has been put, with the tone expressed in figures 1, 2, 3 and 4, and the meaning most commonly attached to it.

Different ways of fixing the characters on the memory will no doubt suggest themselves to individual students, but it may be of assistance to those who have no plan of campaign if a method is explained which has been pursued with fairly satisfactory results.

Each character should be carefully copied on a separate slip of paper, preferably about an inch square, and at the back of each ticket the sound, tone and meaning should be written.* These squares should be gone through daily, and an attempt should be made to identify each character. Those which are successfully identified can be placed on one side and left alone for a week; the failures should be collected separately and their inspection renewed from day to day, the identified tickets being added to the collection of successes and the failures put back to be attacked again. It will not be long before the successes predominate, and the number of failures on each subsequent revision will become encouragingly few. Proficiency in writing the characters correctly will not be easily acquired, but the writing of Chinese is a matter of secondary importance. It is always possible, in China, to obtain the services of a native clerk, and it is almost hopeless for a foreigner to attempt to write a presentable hand. This is a mere matter of practice, but, as has been previously stated, it takes many years of daily practice to arrive at good handwriting. At the same time, it is only by copying the characters that they can be successfully learnt.

In copying the characters care should be taken to form them after the recognized system. If this is not followed they will not only be hopelessly awry, but it will be difficult to count the number of strokes of which each character is composed. A correct estimate of these, as has been explained, is necessary when looking for a character in the dictionary. In writing characters one rule should be borne in mind. Always, when possible, commence on the left-hand side, at the top, and draw the strokes from left to right. There are exceptions to this rule, but they are not sufficiently numerous to affect the general principle. One example will suffice. 福 fu<sup>2</sup>, prosperity, is a character with which every Chinese, literate or illiterate, is familiar; it is the best, or one of the best known characters in the language, and it is in evidence on every doorway at the new year time, not to mention other occasions, in every place where the Chinese script is known. This is how it is written, commencing with the Radical

If the same system is followed in the writing of other characters, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the order of the strokes will be correct.

An attempt has been made in Section II. to explain the reason why so many words in colloquial Chinese are dissyllabic, and illustrations have been given of a few words which require no amplification in writing but have to be expanded in speaking. Many of these amplifications are capable of explanation, but others are not, and the student will save himself much trouble if he will, to commence with, be satisfied to accept the fact that the double words represent the meanings given. If he wants to know why, he can work out the etymologies for himself later on.

The characters are arranged, as stated, at the foot of each page. When some fifty characters have been more or less fixed on his mind the student can begin to play with them, and to make sentences of his own, but if he wishes to play a successful game he must try to forget all the laws of English grammatical construction, and endeavour to learn how to arrange his sentences in the way that a Chinese would arrange them. If he can once get hold of this system and make it his own, half the difficulties of the language will vanish, and it is with the idea of illustrating the Chinese order of construction that, in the exercises which follow, the literal translation of the Chinese equivalent is placed opposite to each sentence. One is almost tempted to apologize for suggesting that the student should feel his way to Chinese through the channel of "pidgin" English—for that is what it practically amounts to—but, if the process is adhered to for a certain time, it will help the learner more than anything else to speak as the Chinese speak.

The acquisition of a vocabulary is, naturally, a mere question of memory, and the great difficulty to be contended with is, not the committal to memory of disjointed phrases, but the combination of these phrases in a properly constructed sentence. This is what the English paraphrase is designed to teach. It will no doubt be subjected to derision by the scientific teacher, but, none the less, the mere eccentricity of the paraphrased sentences will help to fix the order of the words, as well as individual phrases, on the mind of the beginner, and the very little grammar there is to learn will indicate itself in the process as he goes on. If he will persevere to the end of these exercises, spelling out each one for himself, writing it in the Chinese character, and not referring to the key until each sentence is complete, he will assuredly not regret the time he has spent on the labour. When he reaches the end of the examples he will have no difficulty in recognizing the characters he has made his own wherever he may meet them, and he will find, when he turns his attention to more ambitious text-books, that he will sail along with comparative ease. If the writing of the characters is considered too great a labour the English transliteration of these characters should at least be written down, but the best way to fix them on the memory is to write them constantly. When once a character has established a firm place in the memory it will remain there, with very occasional revision, for all time. It may reappear in unfamiliar combinations, the meaning of which will have to be discovered by application to the dictionary, but if any one will persevere until he has thoroughly mastered a thousand words he will find that he is in a position to have some appreciation of a novel, to read the Confucian Classics with intelligent interest, and to master the intricacies of any simple business document. He will need help at first, either that of a dictionary or of an expert, to understand any of these thoroughly, for every branch of written Chinese has its special peculiarities, but he will no longer be outside the pale, and he may count on reaching this stage after less than two years of study, though he cannot expect to speak fluently until he has polished up his knowledge in the country itself, in the midst of native surroundings.

Lastly, the tones should on no account be neglected. Some people make light of the necessity of acquiring correct intonation, but they are most assuredly wrong. It is possible that words in common use may be detected by a native even if pronounced in the wrong tone, but there are hundreds of others which will be absolutely unintelligible if the correct intonation is not given. Indeed, a bad accent is a lesser evil than inaccuracy of tone, while the absence of the latter, apart from leading to misunderstanding, is fatal to the rhythmic cadence which is a marked and pleasing feature of the spoken language. It would be almost impossible to arrive at great accuracy of pronunciation without the constant direction of a native or other competent instructor, but errors of pronunciation can, with perseverance, be corrected later on, whereas, unless the habit is formed of associating a word with its proper tone, it will be found very difficult at a later stage to make good this important omission. No written explanation can give precisely the proper note to be sounded in each tone, but an hour's oral instruction will enable any one with a quick ear to pick these up. On the other hand, some people never can learn them properly, and, consequently, often fail to make themselves understood. One golden rule should always be borne in mind in connection with the tones: the second and third tones must almost invariably be emphasized, and the syllable never clipped. Indeed, speaking in general terms, it may be said that if the second and third tones are looked after, the first and fourth will more or less take care of themselves. Not that they should be neglected; far from it, but they are often not sounded at all, whereas, with the exception of the character

tsü, a son, when used as a substantive indicator, and a few words in the second or third tone when used as finals, it is seldom safe to neglect tones numbers two or three. The few instances in which they can be ignored will be seen in the list of new characters following each sentence. Whenever no tone mark is attached to the phonetic rendering of any of these characters it may be taken for granted that the tone is not to be sounded.

It should be noted that when two words in the third tone come together the first almost always takes the second tone or the first.

Any one who has taken the pains to work carefully through the foregoing sentences cannot fail to notice that the system of writing Chinese "backwards," as we might call it, applies also to a certain extent to the language. A recent writer on Japan has observed that the Japanese "speak backwards, read backwards, and write backwards." So, as far as this generalization can be accepted, do the Chinese, and it may at least be said that the order of the sentences is often inverted. The student who wishes to speak Chinese correctly must, therefore, divest himself at the outset of any idea that a Chinese sentence runs upon the same lines as an English one. It is a safe rule, in attempting to reproduce an English sentence in Chinese, to begin by cutting out all superfluities. It should, in fact, be treated as one would treat a telegraphic message and be reduced to its lowest possible dimensions; after this it may be transposed into a Chinese key, with the liberal interspersion of certain particles.

The nouns present little difficulty. One thing to bear in mind is that many of them take one of two or three endings. The most common of these is 子, which in Peking is often replaced by 兒. The termination 兒, however, is so essentially a characteristic of the Peking dialect that for general purposes it is advisable to be sparing in its use. A few indicative prefixes or "numeralives" must also be remembered, but in case of doubt it is always fairly safe to employ 個 "piece."

Another point to which attention might be called is the absence of the single affirmative or negative. "Yes" or "No" can be expressed by a single word, but they are seldom so expressed, the common form being the repetition of the latter half of a question for the negative, as in the question, "You go out not go out?" "I not go out;" the affirmative being indicated by the repetition of the first half, "I go out."

Most people at first find a difficulty in discriminating between the two negatives 不 and 沒. Only experience will enable the speaker to decide without hesitation which of the two should be employed in particular cases, but if it be borne in mind that 不 cannot be used with 有, have, nor 沒 with 是, be; further, that 沒 is generally used in connection with past action, much difficulty of selection will be removed. If we wished to say "He has not come," we must express it by 他沒有來, or, 他沒來 he has not come. If we said 他不來, it would mean either that he was not coming or that he would not come. So, 我不要 I am not wanting, i.e. I do not want; 我沒要 I have not wanted; i.e. I did not want. Attention is called to one other point; 要 not only means want, but also will, and is often used to mark the future tense, as 他說我沒有, 他要給我. He says that if I have not got any he will give me some.

VI:

The numerals present no great difficulty. The symbols from one to ten are as with us, except that the numerative 個, "piece," generally follows each figure, as — 一個, one piece, in the counting of objects. The "teens" are denoted by "ten one," "ten two," &c.; the multiples of ten by "two tens," for twenty, "three tens" thirty, and so on. The way to express hundreds, thousands, and fractional parts of round numbers, will be shown in the few examples that are given.

There are three ways of writing the numerals, which may be styled the common form, the legal form, and the abbreviated form, the last being known as the Soochow system of notation. The legal form is only used on formal documents or bills, and is equivalent to our writing numerals in words instead of in figures; the abbreviated form is employed occasionally in bills or memoranda of accounts. The three forms are given below, but it will not be necessary, for ordinary purposes, to pay attention to the legal or abbreviated forms of notation.

There is one character in the foregoing list which deserves special attention. 就 chin', is one of the most valuable words in the spoken language, and its use is seldom out of place. Whenever a word is wanted to help out a sentence that seems to require touching up, throw in a chin' and you will generally be safe. It does duty, as we have seen, for "then" and for "immediately"; for "all right" and "only" when combined with 是, "is," and it often takes the place of "so." It is also used on occasion to indicate the future tense. Nothing, of course, but practice will enable the learner to be certain when it can be employed, but it should never be lost.

sight of, for it can be liberally introduced as an adjunct which has no special force, but gives a finish to the sentence.

The same, in a modified degree, may be said of 可, or 可是, "but," which should almost invariably be placed after the personal pronoun. The Chinese say "I but," not "but I."

Note, again, that 時候, "time," when used in the sense of "when," always takes 的 before it, as 我來的時候兒, "when I came." When used as "when," it can never take the first place in a sentence.

Caution should be exercised in the use of the personal pronoun 你, "you." This is only employed when addressing intimates or inferiors, near relations of the same or of a younger generation, or by parents to their children. To address a stranger as ní would not be polite. The polite form of address is 您 nín<sup>2</sup>, or 您納, nín-na, and this would be used even to the commonest person who was a stranger when asking him, for instance, which was the road to a certain place. We shall come directly to other forms of address to officials of minor degree and so forth, but it might be mentioned here that persons who have no official rank or title, such as tradesmen and the like, are generally designated by the calling they follow. Thus, a man whose name was Wang and whose calling was that of a carpenter would be called Wang Mu-chiang, Carpenter Wang, the name always preceding the title; a shopkeeper would be called Wang Chang-kuei-ti, "till-keeper" Wang, or, if he was a foreman, or something of that sort, the title would be Lao-pan, "mate," or "old comrade." 先生 Hsien-shêng, "before born," or Lao-Hsien-shêng, "old before born," can be applied to most people, but it belongs properly to the lettered or teaching class who have no official status. There are many other forms of address, such as Shih-fu, "craftsman," applied to skilled mechanics, and, curiously enough, to cooks, but, to begin with, it will be found a safe rule to address all but distinctly social inferiors as nín or nín-na, "you, sir," and people to whom more consideration is due as Hsien-shêng, "before born."

The observance of these little distinctions is important, for the Chinese, as a people, are most polite in their manners towards each other, and the neglect of their conventionalities by foreigners, most of whom are not aware of them, is a fertile source of contemptuous dislike. Treat a Chinese with the conventional forms of politeness to which he is accustomed from his own people, learn to bow as he bows when accosting a stranger, and give him his proper title, and he will treat you with the respect he seldom accords to the "barbarian" who knows nothing of his language or of his customs. A knowledge of these courtesies is a valuable aid to success in conversation.

It will by this time have been discovered that there are certain stock particles, or grammatical indicators, that govern the construction of a Chinese sentence. The mode of their use would be simple enough to learn if it were invariable, but unfortunately it is not, and there are so many ways of saying the same thing in Chinese that it is difficult to lay down hard and fast rules. It is not advisable for the student, at any rate in the earlier stages of his career, to go deeply into the question of Chinese grammar; he will pick up the rules, such as they are, as he goes along, if he will keep his eye on the English paraphrase that is placed opposite each sentence. A Chinese grammar elaborated on foreign lines would confuse him considerably at the outset, as the manner in which a sentence is constructed varies with the context. At the same time the number of characters on which the changes are rung is comparatively few, and if they are borne in mind their value as grammatical indicators will soon be appreciated. In the case of verbs, the following are the most important:--

yao <sup>4</sup>	chiu <sup>4</sup>	chiang <sup>1</sup> -lai <sup>1</sup>	. .	the future.
will	then	hereafter
或	或者	許	也許
perhaps	perhaps	may or might	also might
叫	挨	被	受
chiao <sup>4</sup>	ai <sup>2</sup>	pei <sup>4</sup>	shou <sup>4</sup>	. . indicators of passive verbs
cause	suffer	suffer	receive, endure

The mode of their use will be seen in the following illustrations:—

One or other of the above forms, if correctly applied, will suffice to reproduce any mood or tense of the verb that is likely to present itself. If the student will keep these in mind, and will take note of the few hints that follow, he need not trouble himself for some time to come with the intricacies of Chinese grammar.

Note that the pronoun "it" is very seldom used. We could say, 把他 拿 來, "bring it here," but in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred 拿 來 would be sufficient.

The conjunction "and" is not often required. In the sentence "you and I are invited," the Chinese would commonly say, 你 我 都 請 了, "you I all invited."

The equivalent for "and," when it is used, is 同, t'ung<sup>2</sup>, "with"; 連, lien<sup>2</sup>, "together with"; or, as above, 都, "all" or "both."

Degrees of comparison are worked with one or other of the following characters:—

比	多	更	最	頂	一點	些	強
pi <sup>3</sup> ,	to <sup>1</sup> ,	kêng <sup>1</sup> ,	tsui <sup>4</sup> ,	ting <sup>3</sup> ,	i <sup>1</sup> tien <sup>3</sup> ,	hsieh <sup>1</sup> ,	ch'iang <sup>2</sup> .
compare,	many,	more,	most,	utmost,	a little,	some,	superior.

這	個	比	那	個	好	. . .	This is better than that.
這	個	比	那	個	強	. . .	This is better than that.
這	個	好	多	了	. . . . .		This is much better.
這	個	更	好	. . . . .			This is better still.
這	個	最	好	. . . . .			This is the best.
這	個	頂	好	. . . . .			This is best of all (or, very good).
這	個	好	一	點	. . . . .		This is a little better.
這	個	好	些	. . . . .			This is a little better.

The preposition "to" is expressed by 和, ho<sup>2</sup>, or 和, han<sup>4</sup>, "with," or 對, tui<sup>4</sup>, "to."

你	對	他	說	了	沒	有	. . Did you speak to him about it?

The preposition "with" is expressed by 跟, ken<sup>1</sup>, or 同, t'ung<sup>2</sup>.

你	跟	我	來	. . .	You come with me.
我	同	他	去	. . .	I will go with him.

"For" is represented by 給, kei<sup>1</sup>, 替, t'ì<sup>4</sup>, or 代, tai<sup>4</sup>.

我	給	你	做	. . .	I will do it for you.
你	替	我	說	. . .	You say it for (on behalf of) me.

的, ti, often forms the adverbial termination "ly," but in a large number of cases where "ly" is compulsory in English it is unnecessary in Chinese. For instance, in the sentences, "the boy writes nicely," 孩子寫的好 (boy write ing nice), "he speaks distinctly," 他說的清楚 (he speak ing distinct), the Chinese would, like an uneducated English person, drop the "ly." But, "do it carefully," would be expressed by 好好的做.

Mention has been made at the close of Section VII. of the value of the observance of conventionalities when conversing with Chinese. The student, if he is in China, will at this stage no doubt wish to try the effect of what he has learnt upon the native, but if he fires off a prepared sentence abruptly upon a stranger the chances are that his remark will be greeted with a stare of bewilderment. In nine cases out of ten the Chinese addressed will not give the speaker the credit of being able to speak the language and will, on the spur of the moment, take it for granted that the remark addressed to him is in the language of the foreigner and therefore must be unintelligible. If, however, the remark is introduced by a ceremonial bow, or if a question is prefaced with 借光 chieh<sup>4</sup> kuang<sup>1</sup>, "borrow light;" 請問 ch'ing<sup>3</sup> wen<sup>4</sup>, "may I be permitted to ask," or 勞駕 lao<sup>2</sup> chia<sup>4</sup>, "trouble your chariot," etc., the effect will be very different, for the person addressed will have his attention arrested, he will realize that the foreigner knows the laws of politeness, and the remark that follows will almost always be understood.

The undesirability of the indiscriminate use of 你 you, instead of 您, or 您納, you sir, has already been called attention to. A few other hints on etiquette may profitably be added.

Always rise to receive a visitor of any but markedly lower standing, and never sit down again until your visitor has been invited to sit and has taken his seat.

Never precede a visitor into or out of a room, and when greeting him, or taking leave of him, or when asking a question of a stranger, any one who is wearing spectacles should remove them.

When meeting a friend, if you are riding or are seated in a carriage, etiquette demands that you should get down, but in order to save your friend the trouble of doing the same thing it is desirable to pretend not to see him. This is the law of Chinese etiquette, but it is now often relaxed where foreigners are concerned. It is, however, a breach of manners to remain on one's horse or in one's carriage when addressing a friend or a stranger unless the latter is of the "coolie" class.

A man's wife should be referred to with reserve, and when she is mentioned she should be called 令夫人 ling' fu' jén', your honourable wife, or 寶眷 pao' chüan', your precious family. Never, as the tyro would be apt to call her, must she be referred to as 你的媳婦 nǐ' ti hsi' fu', your wife.

The word 令 ling', should precede any reference to the relatives of the person addressed, as 令愛 ling' ai', your daughter, 令尊 ling' tsun', your father, 令弟 ling' ti', your younger brother.

If your host or visitor rises from his chair you must not fail to rise also. When your host, after a certain interval, asks you to drink tea it may be taken as a sign that he wishes the visit to close.

Tea should not be drunk by the visitor at the beginning of a visit without the invitation of the host, and when the host himself rises to place a cup of tea before his guest the latter should rise and receive it with both hands.

One of the most common of Chinese greetings is 吃了飯了 ch'ih' liao fan' liao, "have you had your meal." The answer which should be given is 偏過了 pi'en' kuo' liao, or 偏了您納 "I have been selfish enough to do so"; the implication being that you ought to have waited for the other person to join you.

When a host escorts a visitor to the door, as it is his duty to do,

By an observance of these few rules credit will be obtained for at least an elementary knowledge of the laws of politeness from a Chinese point of view.

IN the following three stories the paraphrase, of which the student is by this time doubtless thoroughly weary, has been dispensed with. It is obviously impossible to translate literally from one language to another, but an endeavour has been made in the English version to follow the Chinese text as closely as is consistent with a due regard for readable English. If the student wishes to criticise the translation, he is recommended to paraphrase the Chinese text for himself as in the foregoing exercises, and after doing so he can correct the English translation to suit his own taste. The notes will indicate new characters and will explain fresh combinations.

An apology is perhaps needed for the juvenile character of these stories. Experience has proved to the writer that, if simplicity of style is aimed at, the nearer one can get to the style in which one would tell a story to a child, the easier will the language be to understand. It is so difficult to find purely Chinese stories for Chinese children, that in two of the stories he has gone back to the memories of childhood for inspiration, with the result, no doubt, that these stories have suffered much mutilation in the process of reconstruction. But he ventures to claim for them the merit of being fair specimens of simple colloquial Chinese.

A STORY OF THE RECOMPENSE OF VIRTUE AND WICKEDNESS.

ONCE upon a time there was a widow, and this widow had two daughters. These sisters were very unlike in appearance; the elder one being the ditto of her mother, not only plain, but also of a very bad disposition, while the younger sister was very handsome and was of a very kindly nature. As the elder sister had the same temperament as her mother, the latter was very fond of her. This is a natural principle, and she could not be blamed for that, but what she was to be blamed for was the way in which she treated the younger sister. The elder sister was well fed and well dressed, while the younger sister did all the coarse work of the house. Not only did she prepare the food every day for her mother and her elder sister, but her duties even comprised the cleaning out of the rooms, the washing of the floor and the drawing of water from the well. She fed on the leavings of the other two, and she wore the old clothes that her sister had discarded. One day the younger sister went as usual to the well to draw water, and when she got to the mouth of the well she saw an old lady sitting there. Directly the old lady saw the girl approach she stood up and said, "Kind-hearted girl, have pity upon an old woman who is suffering from thirst, and bestow on me a bowl of cold water to drink." The girl promptly drew a bucket of water from the well, ladled out a bowlful, and gave it to the old lady to drink. When the old lady had finished drinking it she thanked the girl and said, "As you have shown sympathy for an aged person, and have most kindly waited upon a stranger from afar whom you do not know, I will bestow a benefit upon you. Hereafter, every time you speak, a pearl shall drop from your mouth." As she spoke, she turned into a cloud and floated away. When the girl saw the old lady suddenly change into a cloud and drift away with the wind she was very much surprised, and when she had finished drawing the water she carried it away on a carrying-pole, wondering to herself as she went. When she returned to the house her mother abused her, and said, "You idle drab, why have you delayed all this time upon the road? I know, you have been gossiping on the way with some good-for-nothing dissolute youth." Now this girl was naturally a very bashful person, and directly she heard her mother use this unseemly kind of language her heart began to flutter, and she said, "I never did so." Directly she had said this sentence of four words, four pearls dropped from her mouth. As soon as her mother saw these bright glossy things drop from her daughter's mouth she hastily picked them up and looked at them. Sure enough they were four real pearls. "What's all this about?" she promptly inquired.

Gentle reader, just reflect: if pearls drop out from the mouth whenever a person speaks, and these are picked up by somebody else, although the latter may gain the advantage, the individual himself cannot help being somewhat embarrassed, for if directly one speaks he is to spit out precious stones, a loquacious person would in a very short time spit out so many that the ground would be covered with them, and in the course of a year, if they were all picked up by people, precious stones would become common articles and no one would want them. The fairy (the old lady was a fairy) had also foreseen this point, and so, although she bestowed the power of spitting out pearls upon the girl, she left her free to use or not to use this power as she liked, and so the girl suited her own convenience about spitting them out or not. But this is a digression. To return meanwhile to our story. Her mother closely cross-questioned her daughter, and got out of her all that she said to the old lady from first to last, how the old lady replied, and how she acted; and when she had heard everything she called the elder sister to come, and said, "What do you think of the pearls your sister has spit out?" handing to her as she spoke the pearls for her to see. She also told her all the details of the business from first to last. Now the elder sister was a greedy person, one who thought of ten when she had got five, so she said to her younger sister, "Spit out some more pearls. I want to see with my own eyes." Her younger sister was unwilling to do so, and so she would not spit out any; whereupon the mother and elder sister lost their tempers and drove the young girl out of the room, telling her to make haste and get the dinner ready, after which the mother said to her elder daughter, "You think this business of spitting out pearls is not real, but I saw her spit them out with my own eyes, and so I know she can spit them out; the reason she does not do so is all because of her obstinacy. She does not want to let us gain a little advantage. Never mind, the benefits she has obtained you can also obtain. You have only got to go to the well and bale out a bowl of water for an old woman, and the thing is done." "I won't demean myself," replied the elder sister, "by drawing water for people. I am not a servant. Why should I wait upon an ugly old woman? I won't go." Her mother urged her for a long time, and at last she consented, and went strutting and swaggering off to the well holding a well-bucket in her hand. On arriving at the mouth of the well she looked all round, but there was no one, so she sat down with a pout on her lips and grumbled at her mother. "This is fooling people," she said; "there is no one here, and isn't this making me come for nothing? Wait till I get back, and if I don't take that lying little baggage and give her a jolly good hiding I'm not a 'thing.'" When she had said thus far she suddenly heard the sound of a person walking. She lifted her head and saw a nice-looking old lady standing there in front of her. "Good maid," said the lady, "I am thirsty. Won't you give me a little water to drink?" When the elder sister heard the two words "ya t'ou" (maid) her face flushed, and she said, "What maid? I am a young lady of an honourable family. If you want water to drink, draw it for yourself." "I beg your pardon," replied the old lady, "I beg your pardon; I have made a mistake. I thought you were a kind-hearted person, and so I asked you to draw me a little water to drink. You go back, and when you get home give my compliments to your mamma and see what jumps out of your mouth when you speak." When the elder sister heard this remark about things jumping out of her mouth she thought to herself, "This surely must be the fairy"; and she was just about to return her a polite reply, when suddenly the lady disappeared. The elder sister gave her eyes a rub and looked again—sure enough, there was not a vestige of the lady. "This is strange," thought she; "just now there certainly was a lady standing there. How can she have disappeared?" Then she slowly walked home, pondering as she went, found her mother and began to tell her the strange story. She had just opened her lips and said the two words "Ma ma," when out jumped two frogs from her mouth. "Ai-ya!" cried her mother, and asked, "How's this?" The elder daughter replied, "I don't"—two more frogs—whereupon she daren't say any more. When her mother saw these frogs jump from her daughter's mouth she got into a furious rage, and said, "This is surely your younger sister's doing; she is determined to injure you. Wait till I get hold of her and beat her to death." As she spoke she looked round for a big stick with the intention of beating her second girl to death.

When the young girl heard through the kitchen wall her mother say that she would beat her to death, she didn't wait, but rushed out bareheaded and ran wildlly away. After she had run for some time she reached a wood and hid there, not venturing to return home. After she had waited a long time in the wood and did not see her mother come she became a little more composed in mind. "Since I cannot return home," thought she, "I must think of some way of finding some other person's home in which to live. Unfortunately I am a girl. If I was a man, that could be easily managed. All that I can do is to find some family and exchange my ability to cook for food and clothing." So she got up and walked into the wood, proposing to find some road that passed through the wood. She walked a long time, but the farther she walked the denser became the wood. By this time the girl was not only tired but was also both hungry and thirsty and could not walk any farther, so she sat down and began to cry. Who would have thought that just at the time she was crying there a young gentleman heard the sound of her crying? He hastily bored his way through the thick foliage and there saw an extremely beautiful girl sitting on the ground crying.

Gentle reader, would you guess who this young gentleman was? He was none other than the eldest son of the Prince of that place, who was hunting in the forest, and most opportunely came across the young girl. This young nobleman was both dignified and handsome, and was moreover of the most compassionate disposition. The thing he could least endure was the sight of anyone suffering hardship or calamity and so directly he saw the girl crying there his heart was touched, and he hastily asked, "Why are you crying so, young lady? Is it that you have lost your way, or is it that you have suffered some wrong?" When the young girl heard the sound of a human voice she was really like a dead person come to life again, and hastily replied, "Ah! good sir, my deliverer, you have arrived most opportunely; I was waiting here to die." What did she think at this crisis about spitting out pearls or not? And so, as she spoke, pearls went dropping from her mouth. The young nobleman was very much surprised, and promptly asked the reason, whereupon the girl told him the particulars of the story that has been narrated above. The subsequent story need not be told in detail. The same principle holds good all over the world. A good-looking young nobleman, an elegant and handsome girl; have we not here to hand an appropriate match? Of course the young gentleman helped the girl to rise and slowly conducted her to his palace, where his mother carefully nursed her, and in a few days the girl was quite well again. The Prince was just looking for a satisfactory person to give his son to wife and this girl exactly suited his ideas; moreover, she had the capacity of spitting out pearls. So it was not a month before the wedding took place and a virtuous and handsome nobleman and an elegant young lady became husband and wife.

If you ask what subsequently became of the elder sister who spit out frogs, this will not take many words to tell. When the elder sister saw that every time she talked, frogs jumped from her mouth, she was afraid to speak and in course of years she became dumb, while her mother became ill from vexation and died.

THE STORY OF THE MAGIC BEAN.

CHAPTER I.

A GREAT many hundred years ago, I cannot precisely remember how many years it was, there was a widow. This widow was very poor, and when her husband died he did not leave her any property except one small house, two acres of ground and a cow. This widow had only one son and the two of them depended entirely for their subsistence upon the milk which this cow gave. Unfortunately the son was not a good son; he did not help his mother in the least to look after the household and all he thought of was playing with his little friends in the street. So, after several years had passed, as the income did not equal the expenditure, the widow owed a considerable number of debts and the proprietors of the shops in the village would not sell her anything. "You owe us a considerable amount of money," said they, "you do not pay us the money you owe us and still come to us here to demand things. That won't do; we also have wives and children, and if we give you things for nothing how are we going to live?" So it came to pass that one day the widow's son (I forgot to say that his name was Chieh-ko) came home in the evening and wanted some food to eat. "My son," said his mother, "I have really no help for it; there is no money in the house, none of the shopkeepers will give me credit and we must go to bed hungry." On getting up the next day the widow said to Chieh-ko, "My son, I have been thinking all the night, and there is really no other way, we must sell the cow; so you take it and lead it to the market and sell it." So Chieh-ko, with an empty stomach, took the cow and led it away. He had not walked very far when he met a butcher. The butcher asked him, "Where are you driving this cow of yours to?" "I am driving her to market to sell," replied Chieh-ko, and as he spoke he gazed at some things that the butcher held in his hand;

they were neither round nor square, neither blue nor green. "What are those things that you are holding in your hand?" asked he. "These are very rare things and are worth a great deal of money," the butcher told him. "If you want them I will exchange this bagful of them for your cow." Now Chieh-ko had always been a simple child and he did not know that the things which the butcher was carrying were only beans; but the butcher did not know that amongst these beans there was a magic bean. If you ask what is a magic bean, read on farther and you will know. Chieh-ko took what the butcher was saying to be the truth, so he took the cow and exchanged her for the beans. He returned home in high spirits and told his mother how he had come across the butcher, and how the butcher had in the kindness of his heart given him these pretty beans, and how he had given the cow to the butcher. Directly his mother heard this story she began to cry, and said, "You good-for-nothing boy, will not this cause us to die of hunger?" and as she spoke she took the beans and threw them into the garden, the mother and son going hungry to bed.

The next morning early when Chieh-ko got up he went to the window and looked out, when he saw a big tree. "This is strange," thought he to himself, "yesterday there was no tree in the garden; how could a big tree like this have grown up in one night?" He hastily went down to look, and sure enough there was a big tree which grew so high that when he looked up he could not see the top. Chieh-ko did not wait to say anything to his mother, but climbed up. He climbed for several hours before he reached the top, and when he looked round on all sides from the top of the tree there was no sky, all was ground. By this time Chieh-ko had not only come out all over perspiration but he was also very tired, so he got down on to the ground from the top of the tree and directly he lay down he fell asleep. How long he slept before he waked I do not know, but by this time, as Chieh-ko had not eaten anything for two days, he was naturally insufferably hungry and all he thought about was finding something to eat. He looked all round him, but there were no houses and no people, so he walked forwards, thinking that perhaps he might find a house and demand a little food from the people in the house to appease his hunger. He walked for several miles and crossed over a small hill, when he saw right in front of him a large house. When Chieh-ko saw this house he was much rejoiced in heart, and quickly ran to the front door and rang the bell. The bell sounded loudly, and in a short time a woman came out. Directly she saw Chieh-ko, "Ai-ya!" said she, "what have you come for? Run away quickly, otherwise you cannot live two days." "I do not know what the meaning of your remarks is," said Chieh-ko, "but I do know that if you don't give me something to eat I cannot live even a single day," and as he spoke he fell down to the ground and lay there just like a dead person.

Now the woman was a kindly person at heart, and as soon as she saw Chieh-ko's condition she picked him up in her arms and carried him into the house. If you want to know what happened afterwards, kindly read the next chapter.

CHAPTER II.

Now the house that Chieh-ko had come to was not the house of an ordinary individual. The master of it was a very cruel giant, whose chief delight was the devouring of small children whom he went out every day to look for. As the residents of that neighbourhood had had a considerable number of their children eaten by the giant they had all run away, and this was the reason why Chieh-ko had not come across anyone on the road.

I will now resume the story of Chieh-ko's affairs. When the woman carried him into the house the giant was not at home, having gone out to look for small children. After a time Chieh-ko came to again and the woman gave him food and drink; and when Chieh-ko had finished his meal he felt very much better, whereupon he asked the woman, "What did you mean when you said just now that I could not live two days here? I don't understand." "You do not know," said the woman, "that my husband is a very dreadful giant and is particularly fond of eating small boys. Directly he hears you are here he will take you and eat you." When Chieh-ko heard this he began to be afraid, and was just going to run away when he heard the loud voice of a man calling outside. The woman hurriedly took Chieh-ko and put him into a big iron stove (there was no fire in the stove) and told him to hide in there and not to make the slightest sound, otherwise her husband would certainly eat him. As she spoke she went out to open the door for her husband. The giant had been unsuccessful in his search for small children and having returned empty-handed he was naturally full of rage. Directly he came into the room he lifted up his head, gave a sniff, and said, "I smell the smell of a small child." "What are you talking about?" replied his wife, "there are no small children here, this is dream talk." The giant gave a grunt and sat down, telling his wife to make haste and bring the supper, whereupon the old woman brought in a whole pig from the kitchen and the giant ate it all, besides drinking several large jars of wine, after which his anger gradually subsided. Then said he, "Bring the hen"; and his wife brought in a big hen and put it on the table. "Lay a golden egg," said the giant; and the hen laid a large golden egg. "Lay another," said the giant; and the hen laid another. So it went on, the hen laying five or six large golden eggs in succession as the giant gave the order. At this time, as there was not much air in the stove, Chieh-ko had gently pushed open the door a little, and looking out through the crack in the door he saw the hen laying the golden eggs. Thought he to himself: "If we could have a magic fowl in our house like that we should never suffer hunger all our lives," and the more he thought about it the more he coveted the fowl. After a while the giant, having drunk too much wine, became sleepy. First he nodded and afterwards went to sleep. Chieh-ko waited till he was sound asleep and then, creeping stealthily out of the stove, made a grab at the magic fowl and ran off. If the fowl had not cried out nothing would have happened, but it gave several squawks in succession and the giant woke up with a start. Directly he opened his eyes and saw Chieh-ko running off with the fowl under his arm he gave chase and, my word! the race was a terrible one. If the giant had caught up Chieh-ko there would be no occasion to proceed farther with this story, but where the advantage came in was this: Chieh-ko was young and the giant was both old and fat; Chieh-ko was the first to get to the top of the tree, and although he was panting so that he could hardly breathe, he did not wait, but hastily climbed down, the giant climbing down after him. Chieh-ko got down to the ground first and looking up he saw the tree waving backwards and forwards, so he knew the giant was coming down after him. He saw an axe on the ground, and picking it up he hacked at the trunk of the tree with all his might. In a short time the trunk of the tree snapped and down fell the giant, bumped on the ground, and died.

The sequel does not require much telling. The magic fowl laid golden eggs for Chieh-ko every day, and so he soon became very rich. Afterwards he married the daughter of a high official and had five sons. These five sons also married when they grew up and each one of them also had five sons besides a number of daughters, and the three generations all lived happily together in one large enclosure. After the fowl had laid a good many tens of thousands of golden eggs it died. Chieh-ko was very fond of the fowl and was unwilling to bury it in the ground, so he skinned it, stuffed the skin with straw and put it into a glass case, which is still kept in the house of Chieh-ko's descendants. If anyone does not believe it he can go to the house and see.

Possibly there may be people who assert that Chieh-ko was not a Chinaman. I venture to ask, how do they know?

THE DOG THAT REPAID A KINDNESS.

IN the district city of Wu-hu, on the Yangtze River, there was a merchant named Wang who had been in business there for twenty odd years and had made a fortune of a lakh and more of taels. As he was over fifty years of age, he relinquished his business and made up his mind to return to his place of domicile, there to rest and foster his old age. As soon as he had come to this decision he hired a junk, placed his baggage on board and selected an auspicious day upon which to set sail on his return to his home. Just as the junk was about to get under way old Mr. Wang saw from the deck a man tying up a dog on the river's bank, with the evident intention of killing it to eat. Old Mr. Wang, observing the pitiful appearance of the dog, thereupon went ashore, gave the man a few cash and ransomed the dog's life. Directly the dog was released Mr. Wang returned on board the junk and ordered the skipper to get under way. The dog followed him on to the junk and would not leave his side; but Mr. Wang did not take much notice of the dog, only casually throwing him scraps to eat at meal-times. Now, this skipper and his mates were not respectable people. On the contrary, they were river pirates of many years' standing; and when they saw that their passenger had brought with him by no means an inconsiderable amount of baggage they conceived the idea of murdering him and distributing his effects amongst themselves. They accordingly proceeded to pole the junk to a solitary spot and took out their swords with the intention of killing old Mr. Wang. When Mr. Wang saw their savage demeanour he realised that his end had come; so he said to them, "Since you want to do me to death, all I ask is that you will do me the favour of leaving me with an unmutilated body." This request seemed reasonable to the pirates, so, after consulting amongst themselves for a short time, they proceeded to thrust Mr. Wang into a sack and having tied up the mouth of the sack with cord they threw both sack and man into the river. Directly the dog saw the sack which contained his benefactor thrown into the river, he jumped after it, took it into his mouth and floated down the stream with it. After floating for some time he reached a spot where the water was shallow and his four feet found ground. The dog then waded through the water, and having dragged the sack to the river's edge, proceeded to gnaw the cord with which the sack was tied, with the intention of releasing his benefactor. He gnawed for some time but failed to undo it, so he ran to a house that overhung the river and howled loudly in front of the door. The inmates came out; and when they saw the dog howling and at the same time running towards the river's bank they followed him to the bank and there they saw the sack. They undid it, and inside they saw a man half dead and half alive. They hastily carried him between them to the house, took off his clothes and after lustily rubbing him for some time he came to and proceeded to tell them the foregoing episode. Although these men were simple country folk they were none the less possessed of consciences, so they nursed him for several days and then placed him upon one of their small boats and sent him to a neighbouring market town. As luck would have it, an old friend of Mr. Wang's lived in this market town, so he went to look up this friend, borrowed money from him, rewarded the countrymen and sent them back to their home. After this he stayed a few days in the friend's house waiting for a convenient vessel upon which to return to his home. One day old Mr. Wang and his friend were walking on the river's edge, the dog following as usual, when the dog suddenly ran on board a junk that was lying alongside the shore, seized a man on board the junk by the leg and held him fast. Mr. Wang hastily jumped on board the junk with the intention of driving the dog off. He gave a look—the man that the dog had hold of was none other than the chief of the pirates! Old Mr. Wang thereupon cried out, some bystanders ran up, and Mr. Wang told them the whole story of how the skipper of this junk had tried to murder him. The men thereupon bound the skipper of the junk and afterwards searched his vessel, in the hold of which Mr. Wang's baggage was still stowed. There were the pirates and there was the booty. Wasn't this sufficient evidence? If it be asked how, for the moment, old Mr. Wang had not recognised the junk and the skipper of the junk, it was all due to the fact that the pirates had painted the junk a different colour and had changed all the clothes they originally wore.

Dear! dear! A dog who thus repays a favour can surely afford an example to those who forget benefits and are ungrateful for kindness shown!

長江<sup>2</sup>蕪湖縣<sup>3</sup>地方、有個商人姓王、在那裏做了二十幾年
 的買賣、賺了十幾萬銀子、因為年紀過了五十歲、就把買
 賣<sup>6</sup>攔下了、定了主意、回到本籍去、歇一歇<sup>9</sup>養老、主意一定
 了、他就雇了一隻船<sup>10</sup>、把行李裝上了、挑<sup>11</sup>了好日子開船回
 家裏去、船剛要開的時候、王老板<sup>13</sup>打船面上、看見了河沿<sup>14</sup>
 上有一個人在那裏縋著一條狗<sup>16</sup>、明明的要宰他吃、王老
 板看這狗的樣子怪慘的、就上岸去、把幾個錢給了那個

鷄下了好幾萬金蛋之後，就死了，借哥因為他愛這個鷄，不肯把他埋在地裏，所以他把那鷄皮剝了去，拿乾草裝在那空皮裏頭，擱在玻璃匣子裏頭，今還在借哥後輩家裏存著，誰不信，誰可以上那房子去看，或者有人說，借哥不是中國人，敢問，他們怎麼知道，

大聲兒、那個娘兒們就忙忙的把借哥攔在一個大鐵火爐子裏頭、爐子<sup>32</sup>
裏沒有火、叫他在那裏藏著、一點不做聲、不然、他的男人一定要吃他、說
著就出去給他男人開門、那大個兒出去找小孩子、沒找著、空手回來了、
自然是滿肚子氣、一進屋子裏來、抬了頭、聞一聞、說我聞見有小孩子味<sup>34</sup>
兒、他媳婦說、這是甚麼話、這裏沒有小孩子、你說的是夢話、<sup>35</sup>那大個兒就
哼<sup>36</sup>了一聲、坐下叫他的老婆快拿晚飯來、那老婆就把一個整豬<sup>37</sup>、打廚房
裏抬進來了、大個兒把豬都吃了、也喝了幾大罈<sup>39</sup>子酒、他的氣這就慢慢
的消了、<sup>40</sup>後來他說、把母鷄拿來、他媳婦兒就把一個大母鷄帶進來了、攔

CHINESE TEXT.

珠，所以他隨著說，寶珠隨著打嘴裏往下掉，那公子很詫異，忙問緣故，姑娘就把以上所說的故事兒細細的告訴他了，往下的話不用細說了，天下都是一個理，一個好看的相公，一個秀美的小姐，這不是現成的佳耦麼，那相公自然把小姐扶起來了，慢慢的領到他府上去了，公子的母親好好的撫養他了，沒有幾天那姑娘就好了，那王爺正找一個妥當人，給他兒子做媳婦，這個姑娘正合他的意，又有吐寶珠的能爲，沒有一個月喜事就辦完了，善美公子、秀流小姐就成了夫婦了，若問那吐蝦蟆的大姐後來怎麼樣，這用不了多少話，大姐一看每逢說話的時候，打嘴裏跳出蝦蟆來，他就不敢說話了，年深日久，就成了啞吧了，母親因急成病而死了，

越走樹就越深密了、<sup>113</sup>這個時候、小姑娘不但乏了、又餓又渴、<sup>114</sup>也走不動了、<sup>115</sup>就坐下哭起來了、誰想他正在那裏哭的時候、有一位相公<sup>117</sup>聽見他哭的

猜、<sup>119</sup>這一位相公是誰、不是別人、是本處王爺的大公子、<sup>120</sup>在樹林子裏打圍、

恰巧就碰見這小姑娘了、<sup>124</sup>這一位公子、長的又體面又好看、<sup>125</sup>性情也是極

慈悲的、<sup>126</sup>最不忍看人家受甚麼苦難、<sup>127</sup>所以一看那姑娘在那裏哭、心就動

來的真巧、我在這裏等著死呢、這個時候、他那裏想甚麼吐寶珠不吐寶

大姐回答，我不。又是兩個蝦蟆，他就不敢往下說咯，他母親看這蝦蟆打他姑娘嘴裏跳出來，就大生氣說，這準是你妹妹弄的事，有意要害你，等我把他打死了，說著就找一根大棍子，要把他二姑娘打死了，小姑娘在廚房裏隔著牆，聽見他媽媽說要把他打死的話，也沒等，就光著頭往外混跑，跑了半天就到了一個樹林子，在樹林子裏藏著，不敢回家去，他在樹林子裏等了好久，不見他媽媽來，心就定了一點，想，我既不敢回家去，我得想法子找甚麼別的人家住，可惜我是姑娘，我若是一個爺們，那就好辦，我只能找甚麼人家，以做菜的本事換吃的穿的就是了，這麼著，他就起來了，往樹林子裏走，打算找一條過樹林子的道兒，走了半天，

都是他那牛心、不願意叫我們得一點便宜、不要緊、他得的好處、你也可以得、不過要上井裏去給一個老婆子啣一碗水就完了、姐姐說、我犯不上給人家打水、我不是底下人、伺候一個醜老婆子做甚麼、我不去、他母親勸了他半天、到了兒他答應了、搖搖擺擺的、提溜著柳罐上井那裏去了、到了井口、四下裏看、沒有人、他就噉著嘴坐下、抱怨他母親說、這是胡弄人的事、沒有人在這裏、這不是白叫我來麼、等我回去的時候、我若是不把那說謊的小傢伙好好的打一頓、我就不是個東西、說到這裏、忽然聽見人走的聲音、抬頭看、面前有一個好看的老太太、在那裏站著、那老太太說、好了頭、我渴了、給我一點水喝罷、那大姐聽見了頭兩個字、紅了

用這個權、不用這個權、都是讓他自由、<sup>61</sup>這麼著、這姑娘吐珠不吐都是隨便、<sup>62</sup>這可是另外的話、<sup>63</sup>且說、他母親問長問短的、就把他女孩子、和那老太太從頭至尾的<sup>65</sup>怎麼說的、<sup>66</sup>老太太怎麼答怎麼行的、<sup>67</sup>都問出來了、聽完了就把大姐叫來了、說、你看你妹妹吐出來的寶珠怎麼樣、<sup>68</sup>說者就把那寶珠遞給他看、<sup>70</sup>並把這事情的原委、<sup>71</sup>一五一十的告訴他、<sup>72</sup>那大姐是一個貪心不足的人、得了五個就想十個、所以就對他妹妹說、再吐寶珠罷、我要親眼瞧一瞧、<sup>74</sup>他妹妹不願意、就不吐咯、<sup>75</sup>母姐兩個著了急、把小姑娘趕出屋子去了、<sup>77</sup>叫他快預備飯、回頭母親就對他大女孩兒說、你以為吐寶珠的事不是真的、<sup>78</sup>我可是親眼看見他吐、所以我知道他會吐、不吐的緣故、

悞悞人、一聽他媽媽說這個樣的醜話、心裏就跳起來了說、我並沒有、

一說了這四個字的一句話、打嘴裏就掉下四顆寶珠來了、他

母親一看這光亮東西、打他女孩兒嘴裏掉下去、忙忙的撿起來、瞧了不

錯、是四顆真珠、忙忙的問、這是怎麼的事、看官您想、說話打嘴裏掉寶珠、

若是叫別人撿起來、他們雖然得便宜、本人不免累贅一點、若是一說話

的時候、嘴裏吐出寶石、愛說話的人、不大的工夫、就要吐得滿地都是寶

石、一年的工夫、若叫人都撿起來、寶石就成了賤物了、沒有人要、那神仙

老太太是神仙也想到這一層、所以他雖然把吐寶珠的權賞給那姑娘、

姐姐不要的舊衣裳、有一天、那妹妹照樣兒上井裏去打水、到了井口就看見了一個老太太在那裏坐著、那老太太一看那姑娘來就站起來說心好的姑娘、可憐一個挨渴的老婆子、賞我一碗涼水喝、那姑娘趕緊的打井裏打了一桶子水、舀了一碗給老太太喝了、老太太喝完了、給那姑娘道謝說、你既是體諒年老的、和和氣氣的伺候不認得的遠客、我就賞你一個好處、以後你每逢說話的時候、打嘴裏就要掉下一顆寶珠來、說著就變成雲彩飄了去了、小姑娘看見那老太太忽然變成雲彩、順著風飄了去、心裏很詫異打完了水、一邊挑著走、一邊納悶、回到家裏的時候、他母親就罵他說、你這個懶了頭、爲甚麼在道兒上耽誤了這半天、我知

前者有一個寡婦<sup>4</sup>，這寡婦有兩個女孩子，他們姐妹的容貌大不相同<sup>7</sup>，那大的就和他母親是一對兒<sup>8</sup>，長的<sup>9</sup>的不但好看<sup>10</sup>，脾氣也是很壞的<sup>11</sup>，小的長的很美<sup>11</sup>，又是很和氣<sup>12</sup>，那大姐既是和他母親一個樣的脾氣<sup>13</sup>，他母親很疼他<sup>12</sup>，這是自然的理<sup>14</sup>，也難怪他<sup>13</sup>，所怪的是他待那小妹妹的樣子<sup>14</sup>，姐姐吃好的，穿好的，妹妹就做家裏的粗活<sup>15</sup>，不但天天給他母親姐姐做菜<sup>16</sup>，連打掃屋子<sup>15</sup>，洗一洗地板<sup>17</sup>，打井裏的水<sup>18</sup>，都是他一個人的事<sup>15</sup>，吃的是他們兩個人賸下的飯<sup>17</sup>，穿的是他

1 把那舊布衣裳攔在洗澡盆裏，洗一洗，不用使膀子洗，就攔在熱水裏泡，一泡一兩點鐘的工夫，回來擰乾了，挂在太陽地裏，曬一曬，曬好了，就擰起來，攔在櫃子裏頭。2 我借給你的那個錢，你多嚒還我，我多嚒有現錢，我多嚒還。目下連一個大錢都沒有。3 他睡醒了的時候，你告訴他，我在院子裏等他，早飯都擺好了，他一來了，我們就吃。越早越好。4 你別怪我說，你錯了，他有理，他好好的坐着，並不和誰說話，你無緣無故的過去罵他，他自然是生氣，甚麼人，不論是誰，不願意叫人家白罵他，據我瞧，你應該給

THE student having now mastered a thousand characters and having been introduced to a few of the many combinations which they can be made to form, the important point is to retain them in the memory. The system of writing each character on a separate slip and recognising these when selected at random answers well enough to begin with, but more than this is wanted, as they must be recognised in all their combinations, and the different meanings or shades of meaning they assume in these varied combinations must also be gradually appreciated. By constantly reading through the list at the end of this volume he will be able to refresh his memory, but it is obviously by constant reading and speaking that progress in the language will best be made, for the words and phrases in common use will go on repeating themselves, both in reading and in speaking, and will thus impress themselves on the memory. Such a system of study presupposes in due course the services of a native instructor, for no one who has not the opportunity of studying with an instructor by his side can ever hope to speak accurately or to pronounce his words well. It will not be so difficult to acquire a paper knowledge of the spoken language, but the assistance of an expert is indispensable for obtaining a correct pronunciation and the rhythmic swing and intonation which are so essential to elegant speaking. A point should be made daily of reading, sentence by sentence, after the "teacher," and endeavouring to mimic his intonation and his style as closely as possible. Mimicry is the great element of success, and no one will ever speak Chinese well who adheres to his ordinary accent and emphasis. A good teacher will correct errors of tone and pronunciation again and again until they have been overcome, and if at the commencement the student finds that he is not constantly brought to a pause and told to pronounce a word or a sentence over again, he may be sure that his instructor is either careless or incompetent.

There is always a temptation, when examinations are looming in the distance, to limit the attention to allotted text books and to learn these by heart, but it is not the best way to learn Chinese, and as soon as the student feels himself fairly firm on his feet he should endeavour to cover as much ground as he can, making a note, as he goes along, of new characters and combinations. He should get away from foreign text books as soon as he can read them with comparative ease, and should turn his attention to colloquial novels in which he will find a vast store of phrases, and will at the same time be introduced by degrees to a useful form of the written language with which all novels are interlarded. He will find poetry there too, but that he would do well to leave alone for some time. Newspapers in the vernacular are now published in Peking, and doubtless in other parts of China, which will be found very useful reading. Efforts should be made at the very outset to get away from disconnected sentences, for one of the initial difficulties is the stringing of sentences together. This, it will have been noticed by a study of the examples previously given, is done by means of a few words or particles judiciously used. It will be found very good practice to write down a short connected story made up of words which have already been learnt or are to be found in one or other of the many vocabularies now procurable, and to submit it to some authority for correction. The study of the corrections by a competent hand of a composition of one's own is a more valuable lesson than pages of ready-made sentences.

One of the most useful books with which the student can provide himself, when he has made a certain amount of progress, is a Dictionary of Chinese, by MacGillivray, formerly known as Stent's Vocabulary. In this book he will find a translation of every word and combination of words he is likely to come across for many years.

Mention has frequently been made of the "Radicals." These have to be mastered sooner or later if a dictionary is ever to be used, and some authorities call upon the learner to start with them. They are so dry and so uninteresting that many people who only think they would like to learn Chinese give up the task in despair after labouring at them for a few days. The preferable way seems to be to take them by degrees. A fair number consists of words in colloquial use, some of which will already have been met with in the preceding exercises. When the new colloquial words have been added to the stock the balance that remains will not be a formidable one, and it will be sufficient for practical purposes if these are recognised as radicals and their place in the series is more or less established in the mind. A list of radicals in the order of their strokes is appended, and colloquial words are indicated by an asterisk. Of the rest, some are used in writing only, others are never used at all except as radicals.

XIII.

As has been remarked more than once, the way to fix the characters in the memory is to pass them constantly under review. The characters in the following list have been arranged more or less in the order in which they appear at the foot of each page in Volume I. This list should be referred to frequently as the student progresses. When he passes on to the study of other text books he is strongly advised to enter in a note-book each new character he comes across, arranged in the same manner as those in this list. The addition of a second thousand words to his stock, so arranged as to be handy for reference and verification, will be an immense help. A third thousand will probably be all that he will ever require to learn. The figures to the left of each character indicate the Radical under which it will be found in the Chinese dictionaries.
